To Whom it may concern:

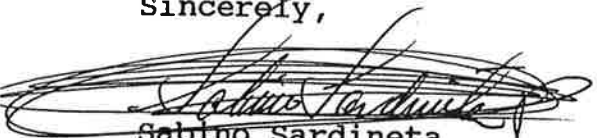

Washington County Community Action Organization is undertaking a capital campaign to build a multi-service center in Hillsboro. This is certainly a project that is long overdue.

As you are probably aware, WCCAO provides many services for the residents of Washington County who find themselves in a crisis situation at various times in their lives. It would seem that having all resources in a centrally located structure would enable even more efficient handling of problems and their solutions.

Centro Cultural of Washington County has worked with WCCAO for many years and shares a unique partnership with the organization. Without the help and food provided by Tualatin Valley Food Center the hot meals program at Centro would not be able to function. We also know that clients who phone or visit our offices with questions and problems that we are unable to resolve will be welcomed at the offices and in the programs of WCCAO.

We ask that you provide support for this new WCCAO building through a financial grant. You may be assured that your contribution to this new facility will be a reflection of your concern of the well-being of the community as well as an investment in its future.

Sincerely,

Sabino Sardineta
Executive Director
