

Play it Again Facts

Play it Again is a free clothing store for low-income families who live in Washington County. Clothing, bedding, diapers and limited personal care items such as soap and shampoo are provided to low-income families free of charge. In a typical day, approximately 30-40 families will visit the program.

Play it Again is:

- The most extensive clothing program of its kind in Washington county
- Completely volunteer operated by individuals and organizations: Christ United Methodist Church, Delta Kappa Gamma, and numerous caring community members
- Free to all families: items are always given away, never sold
- A zero budget program: the building, diapers, all clothing, even the cost of utilities and yard upkeep are provided by donors

Some of our accomplishments in 2002 include:

- Served 2,821 people
- Distributed over 82,000 items
- 88 volunteers contributed over 864 hours of service

Some of our donors and funders include:

- Target
- Intel
- Synopsys
- Encore West
- Tektronix
- Cedar Mill Community Library
- Nike
- Adidas
- Fred Meyer
- Numerous resale shops throughout Washington County
- Hundreds of community members who donate throughout the year
